STRUCTURED DIALOGUE

Structured Dialogue stands for projects that enable discussions between young people, policy-makers and youth experts. Often initiated by young people, the projects can take the form of meetings, conferences, debates and events, or they can include a series of these activities. Structured Dialogue can be carried out at local, regional, national or European level. Young people are actively involved in all stages of the project. They develop competences, related to democratic participation among others, for example skills to formulate and debate their ideas and knowledge about policy processes. As a result of the projects, young people make their voices heard on how policies and services concerning youth should be shaped and implemented in Europe.

Erasmus+ is the European Union's programme for boosting skills and employability through activities organised in the field of education, training, youth, and sport. Youth activities under Erasmus+ aim to improve the key competences, skills and employability of young people, promote young people's active participation in the society, their social inclusion and well-being, and foster improvements in youth work and youth policy at local, national and international level.
